

Defense? Hokey!
River Expansion
Good in Own Name

This writer and the newspapers he has edited have always fought for waterway improvements—whether here in Arkansas or elsewhere in the U. S. A.—but it is a respectable cause, standing on its own feet, it needs no special blessing of war or other national emergency to justify its advocacy.

That's why I am riled by a couple of phrases in this morning's over-night news.

A Washington dispatch reports that President Truman has certified the development of the Arkansas river and its tributaries in Arkansas and Oklahoma for control as "necessary to the defense effort."

The same dispatch reports that the President also said the construction of Table Rock Dam on the White river, just over the state line in Missouri, and the Keystone Dam, at the confluence of the Cimarron and Arkansas rivers in Oklahoma, are "necessary to the defense effort."

The Army Engineers have announced that they are making $147,000 available for survey work on the Arkansas river in this state and Oklahoma, and of course this, too, will be labeled "necessary to the defense effort."

And, of course, there's not a word of truth in what either the President or the Engineers say.

Actually, construction of the projects now or at any time when taxation and material-demand is high because of rearmament is against the "defense effort."

This writer originally favored construction of the Millwood Dam on our own Little river, but had to reverse his opinion—for the time being—because Millwood would cost an estimated 48 million dollars. Obviously against the national-defense effort.

Let us speak plainly in these dangerous times. It is safer for both men and projects.

Soldier Gets Even for His Kid Brother

On the Central Front, Korea, Jan. 15 (UP)—A soft-spoken Ohio infantryman has avenged his "kid" brother's death, and his buddies said today, probably won the Congressional Medal of Honor as well.

PFC. Ronald E. Rosser, 24, Crooksville, O., would say little of his one man charge up a Red-held hill.

But, his buddies told of Rosser's ferocious attack, how he fired his carbine with one hand and hurled grenades with the other. Twice he swarmed up the hill in a hail of mortar and small arms cross fire.

"He was just like a madman up there," said Lt. Charles W. Williams, Hubbard, Mass., leader of the patrol which Rosser sparked.

"I saw him when he came down for the first time," Cpl. Stan J. Kalas, Chicago, Ill., said. "He looked satisfied, as if he had accounted for something."

"He grabbed me," said Sgt. B. Dalba, New York City, N. Y. "He had come down the hill for more ammunition. There was a funny look in his eyes. He said I got me an even dozen."

Asked why he had made his one-man attack on a position held by 70 Reds, Rosser said nervously: "My kid brother was killed with the 1st Cavalry Division last February."

Cpl. Jack Watson of New Albany, Ind., said: "The last I saw of him he was going over the ridge in a puff of smoke. He appeared and then disappeared. It was better than any picture I ever saw."

Rosser killed all the Chinese in a ridge top trench. Then he ran to a bunker and tossed a white phosphorus grenade and backed away. A Chinese soldier came out of the bunker. Rosser shot him dead. He used the same methods on two other bunkers killing their occupants.

He ran out of ammunition. He dashed down the hill through cross-fire pinning down his company. He grabbed more bullets from PFC Stan W. Smith, Los Angeles. From other buddies he grabbed about 15 grenades.

"Let's go, let's go," Rosser yelled as he charged back up through the murderous crossfire. When he ran out of ammunition again Rosser helped wounded down the hill until his company was ordered to withdraw.

"I've never seen anything like it," Smith said. All the time he was running up the hill he was yelling and urging the men on.

"I heard him shout 'I'll be waiting for them at the top,' when he ran up the hill," said Lt. James K. Blackburn, Hartsville, S. C.

Fighting his way to the top of the hill in his first assault, Rosser straddled a trench in which 10 Chinese were dug in. One Red stood in front of him and another behind him. He dropped the one in front with a shot between the eyes. He wheeled around and shot the other in the neck and chest before either of the Communists could fire. Then he shot the other eight Reds.

In Korea since Aug. 15, 1951, Rosser has been in the Army since 1946. He suffered a slight wound in his left forefinger in his charge.

Reds Claim 10 Prisoners Killed by UN Plane

Munsan, Korea, Jan. 15 (AP)—Communists reported today U. N. bombs killed 10 Allied soldiers and wounded 60 in a Red prison camp.

A U. S. Fifth Air Force spokesman said it wasn't so. But the U. N. Command continued to investigate.

The Red report was made at a Korean truce negotiations. One subcommittee argued over who was in what army. A second subcommittee got sidetracked from airfields to the North Korean birth rate.

Neither subcommittee reported any progress toward an armistice. North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho said the Kangdong Prison Camp, holding 1,591 Republic of Korea (ROK) soldiers and one American, was bombed last night. He said names of casualties would be supplied later.

The U. N. Command in Tokyo ordered a full study of air operations to determine whether there is any truth to the Communist allegations. This included flights by carrierborne aircraft and B29 supersonic in addition to Fifth Air Force planes.

The Reds did not invite the Allies to come to Kangdong and see for themselves, as they have when charging bomb attacks in truce zone areas.

Chinese Maj. Gen. Tsieh Fang said repatriating military air fields would be no threat to U. N. security, as Allied delegates charged. Hsieh said sarcastically that the U. N. must consider his very presence at the armistice table a threat to U. N. security because he represents "hundreds of millions of people and millions of soldiers."

"Every time a Korean baby is born it is a threat to your security because it increases the military capabilities in Korea," he added.

Maj. Gen. Claude B. Ferenbaugh replied: "Tomorrow may we please discuss Korean airfields and not the Korean birth rate?"

In the prisoners committee, Lee again denied South Korean prisoners had been impressed into the North Korean army and added: "In any case, you never will be able to investigate."

Lee said all troops in the Red force "voluntarily joined the army."

Rear Adm. R. E. Libby retorted: "You have ROK nationals in your army in large numbers. You have never denied it. You have admitted it. You have boasted about it. You put these people there. We have a right to get them out. We have a right to demand that you hand them over."

"We choose to be extremely reasonable about it. We only asked that those who are there involuntarily be returned."

Both subcommittees scheduled new meetings for 11 a. m. Wednesday 8 p. m. Tuesday CST.

Denies Raiding for Industry

Jackson, Miss., Jan. 15 (AP)—Wayne Fletcher, executive director of the Arkansas Resources and Development Commission, says the South isn't raiding the north-east for industry.

Instead, contends Fletcher, plants are being moved to the South because it has the climate and raw materials necessary for industry.

Fletcher was keynote speaker at the 5th annual meeting of the Southern Association of State Planning and Development Agencies which opened a 2-day session here yesterday.

He took issue with a statement from Gov. Dennis Roberts of Rhode Island last week. Gov. Roberts charged that the South was "robbing or raiding" the New England states for industries.

Junior Band to Attend Clinic

Hope's Junior High band will go to Murfreesboro January 25-26 for a band clinic in which 21 Southwest Arkansas schools will participate.

Others to attend are from Nashville, DeQueen, Mena, Ashdown, Magnolia, North Heights, Texarkana, Lewisville, Foreman, Stamps, Mt. Ida, Dierks, Gordon, Prescott, Sparkman, Arkadelphia and Hot Springs.

Light Fixtures Not Stolen

Approximately $50 worth of lighting fixtures reported stolen by C. P. Rettig has been found and were not stolen at all. City Police reported today. The fixtures had merely been misplaced.

In Pakistan, nine yards of cotton cloth must make a year's wardrobe.

Mother of 8 Children Gives Birth to Quadruplets at a Farm Home Near Murfreesboro

Nashville, Ark.—(AP)—A farmer walked into a hospital here carrying a bundle wrapped in a blanket and told the nurse on duty, "I've four little babies here and they're all mine."

Leonard Ponder wasn't kidding. His 37-year-old wife, Mrs. Huggo Ponder, tonight gave birth to quadruplets—three boys and a girl.

The babies were born at the Ponder farm home two and a half miles north of Murfreesboro, Ark., 20 miles from this Howard County seat.

Dr. M. D. Duncan said the first child arrived at 7:10 p. m., and the others followed at 7:15, 7:30 and 7:45.

The babies were placed in an incubator at the hospital here, and attendants said all of them were doing well. All were receiving oxygen. They have not been weighed.

Mrs. Ponder didn't accompany her husband to the hospital, but remained at home under the care of Dr. Duncan. She also was doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. Ponder have eight other children—all born separately—and Ponder laughingly commented, "I got a houseful now. They sure came in bunches this time."

"We ain't even got any names picked out for them," he said. "We were waiting to see was it going to be a boy or a girl. I don't know what we'll do now."

Stassen Says Taft Is Away Out Front

New York, Jan. 15 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen said last night that Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) is "clearly out in front" in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, told CBS television interviewers that Taft is his chief opponent in his own bid for the nomination.

Taft, he said, "has acquired considerable commitments."

Stassen did not evaluate Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's chances of becoming the GOP standard-bearer, but said he agrees with the general's views on rearming Western Europe.

He said he differs with Taft on foreign affairs, favoring an "active world policy," but he cautioned the United States against "overextending" itself in providing economic aid abroad.

Stassen said America should try to turn other nations "from socialism to economic freedom."

Youth Held in Dynamiting of Home

Dothan, Ala., Jan. 15 (AP)—An 18-year-old high school youth was arrested last night and will be charged with dynamiting a home where a woman and her five children slept, Circuit Solicitor Keener Baxley said.

Baxley reported the youth, William Ervin Jr., admitted setting off the blast.

The solicitor said the youth was a friend of 17-year-old Kenneth Nowell who, Baxley added, was arrested recently on a carnal knowledge warrant charging him with molesting one of Mrs. Grant's small daughters.

Baxley quoted Ervin as saying he simply wanted to frighten the Grant family and run them all out of the community so they could not testify in the carnal knowledge case.

Under a New Orleans law, conviction of dynamiting a dwelling house is punishable by a sentence of 10 years to death.

Baxley said Ervin and a companion are believed to have thrown a bundle of five dynamite sticks at the Grant home. He said the companion had not been arrested but that his identity was known.

The solicitor said Ervin told him he got the idea of bombing the Grant home after reading about the blast that wrecked the frame dwelling of Hugh Bentley, anti-vice crusader, at Phenix City, Ala., last week.

Lions Hear About DeMolay, Study Field House Plan

Frank Horton told the Lions club Monday the aims and purposes of the newly-organized DeMolay chapter in Hope.

During the meeting reports were heard on the progress of planning a field house in the Livestock coliseum. Lion Keeley said that an estimate of the cost would run around $10,000. Lion Joe Ensminger also made the suggestion that a boys club be considered to be based at Fair park. It is one of the best spots in Arkansas for a club, said Ensminger.

Lions Bill Gentry and Virgil Keeley have charge of the program for next week.

Deadlines For Primaries Fixed by Murry

Little Rock, Jan. 15 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Ike Murry has ruled that the deadline for filing as a candidate in next summer's Democratic primaries is April 30.

Murry's ruling went to Secretary of State C. G. Hall yesterday. The attorney general said corrupt practices pledges and ballot fees have to be paid by candidates 30 days before the preferential primary.

The preferential primary will be July 29; the runoff primary will be Aug. 12.

19 Canadian Miners Die in Blast

Stellarton, Canada, Jan. 15 (AP)—Canada's worst mining disaster in 11 years killed 19 coal diggers yesterday in a gas explosion they feared and were working to prevent.

Every man in the blast area in the McGregor mine here was killed. Their burned, broken bodies were brought out of the pit last night and early today.

Three others, working farther from the blast, were brought out alive.

Many tons of coal were blown from the mine roof by the explosion, hampering rescue efforts. But mine officials indicated even immediate arrival of rescuers would have been futile, saying there was evidence all the men were killed instantly.

The blast occurred at the "very bottom of the mine, about 1-1.8 miles down the slope" from the pithead, a mine official said. Many of the miners had been pulled out before the explosion.

Fire warnings already had been put into effect. Miners reported the odor of gas yesterday morning and about 100 men were put to work erecting hardwood and concrete barriers.

St. Louis Couple Injured in Wreck Near Here

Mr. and Mrs. George Ineichen of St. Louis, Mo., were painfully but not seriously injured about 11 a. m. today when the new Cadillac in which they were riding overturned on Highway 67 about 8 miles west of Hope.

Investigation Officer, Sgt. Milton Mosier, said the accident occurred on new paving. He reported that the driver, Mrs. Ineichen, let the auto slip off the shoulder of a new layer of asphalt and the car skidded and overturned when she tried to pull back on.

Both occupants suffered cuts and bruises and the woman complained of a back injury. They were brought to Hope for treatment. The auto was badly damaged.

BROKEN RECORDS

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 15 (AP)—The record library of radio station WLS, mushrooming over the years, collapsed today in a heap. More than 7,000 records fell off shelves and racks—but only one was broken. It was: "How About That Mess?"

CASUALTIES IDENTIFIED

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 48 battle casualties in a new list (No. 479) which reported 8 killed, 35 wounded and 5 injured in accidents.

Here Is a Plan on How to Put the Magic Back Into Your Marriage--If You Live

By ED CREAHE
(For Hal Breigh)

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—Mad at your wife—or husband? Thinking of going home to mother—or father? Convinced, after giving it a fair trial, that you picked a person in the garden of life?

Wait, friend. There's hope for you yet. An easy-as-pie new formula, just published in "This Week" magazine, tells how you can put the magic back into your marriage—if you live.

The secret: Lose weight. Not just a few pounds from around the hips. Lots of weight.

This is the conclusion to be drawn from a survey called "Preserving Success or Failure in Marriage," by E. W. Burgess and L. P. Cottrell, Jr. They make no bones about it. Skinny, bony people have happier marriages than their better-padded neighbors.

But it doesn't work out that way among the people in our neighborhood.

It may be a coincidence but the only couple within three blocks who regularly slug it out at the drop of an insult are thin, pale people who—in the opinion of their friends—would get along much better if they had a little beef on their bones.

And the most contented couple, on the other hand, are a man with a Charles Laughton figure and a woman with the approximate girth of a beach cabana. They hold hands in public, after 15 years of marriage, and they don't care who sees them.

The wife in this case started worrying about her weight, a few years back, and went on a diet. At nothing but bananas and steak or some such nonsense. She lost weight, all right. But she also lost her good disposition.

One night, watching her husband tie into the potatoes and gravy, she threw a salt shaker at him. He was so outraged at that, for he was first time in his life, he went out and got loaded. When he came home, she wouldn't let him in.

He went to a hotel, phoned a lawyer and it looked like the end of their romance. But his wife ate a couple of cream puffs, to soothe her nerves, and felt so much better that she went downtown and apologized to her husband. They went on a second honeymoon and there hasn't been a cross word between them since. She weighs in at 167 today, a gain of nine pounds since Christmas.

HEROS — The fears of a French orphan that he would let down his adopted America have ended. He has been killed in action in Korea. Cpl. ## West Willing to Fight, Red Russia Told

Ottawa, Jan. 15 (AP)—Britain's Prime Minister Churchill leaves for Washington today after warning Russia the West will stand should dor-toboulder against aggression "should our hopes of peace be blasted."

Churchill is primed to deliver a tough-talking address—his second in three days—before a joint session of Congress Thursday. It will wind up his visit to Canada and the United States.

While in Washington, he is expected to renew Britain's fight to block the naming of an American admiral as commander of the Atlantic Fleet Navies. The Prime Minister reportedly wants the command split among the British, Americans and Canadians.

Churchill ended his weekend of conferences with Canadian government leaders last night with a full-throated speech which hailed the 12-nation Atlantic Alliance as the West's "surest guarantee of peace."

Speaking at a lake trout and roast beef dinner given in his honor by the Canadian government, he peered into the future and solemnly declared:

"No one can predict with certainty what will happen. "All can see for themselves the strange clouds that move and gather on the horizons, sometimes so full of menace and sometimes fading away."

"Peace does not sit untroubled in her vineyard," he added, with a typical Churchillian flourish.

But this time, he said, in contrast to the days of Hitler, the key Western nations already have started to mobilize their vast economic and military strength.

"We are all united in the beginning," he said. "We all mean to stand by each other, here in Canada, in the U. S., in Britain, in Western Europe."

With the help of an all-European army bolstered by German units, he said, "we stand with the United States, ready under the supreme NATO (North Atlantic Pact Organization) command to face whatever aggression may fall upon us."

The Atlantic Treaty, he declared, "is the surest guarantee not only of the prevention of war, but of victory, should our hopes be blasted."

The 77-year-old British leader, because of bad weather, cancelled his plans to fly back to Washington this morning. Instead, he planned to leave by train, arriving in the Capital about noon tomorrow.

McMath Scared, Says Chairman of Audit Group

Little Rock, Jan. 15 (AP)—The chairman of the Arkansas Highway Audit Commission said today Gov. McMath is "either scared or has something he doesn't want brought up" in the investigation of the state's road building operations.

R. H. Dickenhorst, Morrilton banker and head of the commission, commented on the governor's radio address of last night by saying "he's bawling around, he's hurt" and "I resent his insinuations."

McMath lambasted the audit commission's work as a "political witch hunt" rather than a constructive audit.

"We are going to get the facts," said Dickenhorst. "That's all we want. I think that's what the public wants, the facts."

"We are going to conduct a fair and impartial hearing, and the chips will fall where they may," Dickenhorst recalled that "ho (McMath) told me he wanted a fair and impartial audit. That's what he's going to get. I expect him to stand and take it."

"He's either scared or has something he doesn't want brought out," the chairman asserted. "If he's in the clear he has no worry, xxx."

"I'm no politician. I don't care what a politician accuses me of." In his address last night, McMath:

"I accepted a challenge from a member of the Arkansas Highway Audit Commission to assume full responsibility for any errors or mistakes committed in his highway construction program;

2. Criticized methods of the audit commission in investigating the operations of the Highway Department;

3. Reiterated his criticism of Atty. Gen. Ike Murry, whom he may oppose in a third term bid for governor next summer; and,

4. Again accused "the big oil dealers" of Arkansas of banding together to raise the price of gasoline in Arkansas.

Audit Commission Member Herbert Thomas of Fayetteville said Saturday that McMath's criticisms of the audit group points to the governor "as the real head of the Arkansas Highway Department."

The governor didn't mention Thomas by name but said: "Every citizen knows the operation of the Highway Department xxx is the responsibility of the governor. As a practical matter, the governor is responsible to the people and answerable to them for the conduct of every state agency."

"I feel and am willing to assume full responsibility for the operation of the Highway Department."

McMath said that when the 1951 legislature approved the bill setting up the Arkansas Highway Audit Commission "I believed that under the direction of fair minded business men a constructive audit could be made."

"Recent events, however," have indicated to me that this investigation also is being turned into a political witch hunt, but it is not too late to get back on a constructive course."

McMath again accused Murry of failing to investigate the "big oil dealers" in an alleged conspiracy to increase the retail price of gasoline in Arkansas.

Murry issued this statement in answer: "By law, the attorney general is made the attorney for all state boards and commissions. As attorney for the Audit Commission, I have been performing a duty which the law requires."

"Since Thursday, the governor has been publicly berating me because I have been doing my duty. He has been doing the same thing in private for several weeks and he has tried to sabotage this investigation in every way possible."

"The governor's criticism of me is unjust and is unbefitting to the state's chief executive. Despite the governor's efforts to hamper and discredit the investigation, the hearings will open Wednesday."

The same rules which govern congressional committee investigations will be observed. Even though attorneys for witnesses will not be permitted the privilege of cross examination.

When the hearings are concluded, the taxpayers will be able to judge from the results whether

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR
"BUT GETTING back to Don,"

Anne's voice held an urgency as she looked at Virginia. She was pleased about the portrait Virginia said she would paint of Barth, of course, only Don's business was so terribly important at the moment. "Don't you really think he ought to fight?"

"Gee! Strong says I have no choice." "You haven't," Barth answered both young people at the same time. "Nor have any of us who feel concern. The battle is already joined. And, I might add, your enemy is mine, too."

Constance felt a sinking sensation. Barth was ahead of her again. She did not know how far he had gone in his thinking, but from the tone of his voice she felt that he was resolved on more than a stand. He had chosen some course of action already clear to him. What was it? She could imagine none that would mean grave involvements for him.

"How is he yours?" Donald was asking. So then Barth told of the Seaside meeting last month, when the question had come up as to what they were going to do now that the church was getting so crowded. Melick had brought it up and a remedial proposition with it. They should build a new church. This one was antiquated. A regular blueprint for the choir that had to use the tiny balcony at the rear for a dressing room. Why not tear it down and build a new one?

Barth had opposed the idea. The Little Stone Church was dear to him after all his years there. And he knew it to be dear to many of his congregation. Besides, it was a gem of a church architecturally. Yes, he had admitted, the choir loft was not safe. And they needed more space. But why not enlarge the building that they had? Push it back—there was land enough—and just make it bigger that way?

Though actually, Barth had gone on, they didn't need a new church yet. It was only crowded on Christmas and Easter and sometimes on Communion Sundays. At those times he had to conduct two services and—he must confess—he no longer felt equal to it. However, if they engaged an assistant minister to take over one of these services and help in the pastoral work as well, he thought it would be a much better solution. Certainly less expensive. For now there was no time to build with the cost of everything so high. He felt quite definitely that his people should not be burdened with the financial problem it would entail.

ally be. With a few exceptions this was not a wealthy congregation. "But I said the wrong thing," Barth told Donald. "Alvin does not like opposition. I don't know of anyone personally, for obstructing his idea, and how much was—" He broke off. "He's insecure, you know. Socially he feels insecure. He always has. I have the feeling that he might bulwark his position in town—Anne, forgive me for saying this but I can't seem to get around it—and that her refusal to do so was a personal insult, not just to Joe but to Alvin as well. That being so, I think he felt that to suggest a new church and to make a large contribution toward its erection—which he offered to do—would definitely establish him in the awareness of Greenwood's inhabitants. He was to be a sort of church president—if I may coin a phrase. And it was to be," he concluded, with a faint smile, "much more of Church of Melick than a Church of God."

He paused there, his fingers again heating a little tattoo. "Well," he finished, sitting upright suddenly. "Did I get called down? I was not one to judge. Melick said, whether the time was right or not. I had better leave that to a businessman to settle, one who understood and could handle finances with greater competence than I. I had better confine my judgments to church matters."

He stopped abruptly, checked by Constance's small cough. Donald, glancing up, intercepted her warning look and knew instantly what it meant. "—which also could be improved," he finished for Barth. "Did he say that? I'm sure he did. Meaning that I should never have been asked to take over the leadership of the Youth Group?"

"Well, you have it," Barth answered, in one of his rare, combative tones. "And you're going to keep it."

"The young people are satisfied!" Anne cried heatedly. "Just the way they are in school. That ought to be enough for him! For anybody!"

Philip said ruminatively, "If I were to quit writing mystery stories, I could do Don's. That is, I think I could."

"And be crucified." He grinned at his wife. "Well, we are already. It couldn't hurt any more."

"Does it hurt?" Don asked quickly. He had thought they were at the Army and Navy Hospital Hot Springs, was the Sunday guest of his brother, Rev. Willard Burk and Mrs. Burk and family.

Patmos Takes Three Games From Hope

Three Patmos teams put on fast finishes here last night to top three cage games which originally were scheduled to be played tonight. A sudden schedule change boosted the games up one night.

This was to make way for El Dorado's Junior and Senior teams which come here tonight for two contests which were originally scheduled to be played Friday night.

Patmos Junior girls staged a fast finish to edge the Hope girls 18 to 14 and a hectic final period saw the Patmos Senior girls downing Hope 24 to 22. It was an erratic contest in which both teams tossed away chance after chance to tally. However, the final period was thrilling and the game was undecided until the last few seconds.

Patmos' boys met a stubborn Hope "B" team which hard-pressed them for three periods before falling far behind in the final stanza which ended in a 48 to 33 victory for the visitors.
